Graham Coyle

Chairperson of EurECA, former teacher and director

Plenary 1: "Jesus, our hopeful future"

Hope is a person, He has a name, His name is Jesus. His Spirit is with us as we walk into every class, every staff gathering, every meeting, every individual encounter. How do we make the most of this glorious truth in our day to day situations, especially after all the pressures of the past two years? What difference will this make to us, and to those we teach and work with?

Lizzie Harewood

Executive Officer of the Association of Christian Teachers in the UK

Plenary 2: "A hopeful future: Curriculum and classroom"

How can Christian Educators bring meaningful hope through the content they teach, and the methods they use to manage their classrooms? Is it really possible to communicate Christian hope through a secular curriculum? Join Lizzie as she helps us to think through a Biblical view of knowledge and the learner, teaching methods and the role of the teacher.

Plenary 3: "A hopeful future: Caring like Christ"

Showing deep concern for the wellbeing of learners and colleagues alike should be a hallmark of all Christians in Education, but how can we go further than trite sentiment and share true hope through our pastoral relationships with students? Can we really bring the hope of the gospel to a context as hostile as a staffroom? Let's think more about what it truly means to care like Christ for those we encounter in our schools across Europe.

Maui Dwulat

Founder and leader of Proem Ministries, Poland

Plenary 4: Contemplating the last two difficult years of the pandemic, we want to look into the future with a hopeful heart, knowing that we can trust our Father. One of my favourite quotes that I often share with my co-workers is "The best is yet to come!" and I wholeheartedly believe that this is the truth. I would like to show how and why this works, by combining my experience with the Word of God,

Agnieszka Crozier

Camp leader and pioneer with Proem, founder and director of Tomaszow Christian Education Center

Plenary 5: I will share testimonies of God's guidance and provision during the past two years, as well as look into the future and concentrate on all the new things the Father has for us. I would like to encourage all of us to be the teachers that will bring the HOPE and LOVE of Jesus to the next generation.
